"Z" Engines

Powerfully Built—Even down to the smallest parts

Know how an engine is built and you know what kind of service to expect from it. Investigate the working parts—the parts that spell the difference between a dependable, powerfully built, long-lived engine and the ordinary common run of engines.

If you could go through the "Z" Engine factory, the greatest engine factory in the world, you would be amazed to note the extreme care used in making even the smallest parts. Finest quality is the one and only standard.

Add to this the Fairbanks-Morse experience of more than half a century in producing fine machinery and its position of leadership for so many years. Over a half million "Z" Engines are now in use.

Come in and let us show you this sturdy engine that costs no more than ordinary engines. Save from 2 to 20 horsepower.

HILL GUNMEN WHO SHOT UP COURT GIVEN FREEDOM

Release of Two Convicts in Virginia Recalls Tragic Battle.

Richmond, Va.—Prison doors have opened for the last members of a desperate mountain clan which shocked the world, in 1912, when it shot up the courtroom at Hillsville, Carroll county, Va., killing the judge, the state's attorney, and the sheriff and a juror.

Wesley Edwards and Sidna Allen, members of the clan, have just been pardoned by Governor Byrd.

Politics in Feud.
The Edwards and Allen families were Democrats. The Republicans in control of county politics were their deadly enemies. Time and again the Allen and Edwards families charged that their foes were persecuting them through arrests for petty offenses and raids on their homes.

Shot Up the Courtroom.

The feud reached a climax when Floyd Allen, one of the leaders of the clan, forcibly freed two of his nephews who had been arrested. Allen was arrested and brought to trial. He was convicted and sentenced to spend a year in prison.

"I won't go!"
Three words from Allen started the bloody battle. When the smoke cleared away three were dead, two were dying and several were wounded. The Allen and Edwards feudists were uninjured, except for Floyd Allen, who was wounded in the leg. Six of them were tried for murder after armed forces captured them.

Two Later Freed.
Floyd Allen and his son, Claude, died in the electric chair. Four others of the clan were sentenced to prison.

Four years ago, however, friends of the Allen and Edwards families made an investigation. They pointed to the fact that sentiment had changed and that, anyway, it never was proved who started the fight. Two of the prisoners, Sidna Edwards and Friel Allen, were freed.

The other two, Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, remained in prison until freed by Governor Byrd. And then ended the Hillsville tragedy.

Postman Elated as Cal Frees Him of War Stain

New York.—"I feel just as if I'd been born again," said Letter Carrier William A. Hock of Newark. Hock was discharged from the postal service for utterances alleged to be disloyal to America, and after eight years of pleading that the discharge was due to war-time hysteria, he has just been reinstated by executive order of President Coolidge.

Hock stretched his toes in comfortable big felt slippers. He gazed proudly at the new uniform hanging beside him and his big chest heaved a happy sigh which stretched his undershirt almost to the splitting point. He had just finished his second day of letter carrying in eight years. "I feel ten years younger," said Hock. "It was awful having that stigma on me and I was just about bughouse. It killed by old mother, she died about a year later."

Hunter Knocked Down by Grizzly Kills Attacker

Cody, Wyo.—Knocked 20 feet by the paw of an enraged grizzly bear that he had previously wounded, Fern Spencer of Cody "came up shooting" and killed the animal.

Accompanied by another hunter, Spencer was trailing the animal after shots from his rifle had wounded the grizzly. As Spencer cornered the bear, it rushed him, striking him a glancing blow with its paw that hurled Spencer 20 feet. He managed to regain his feet before the grizzly reached him and dropped it in its tracks as the animal made a second wild rush for him.

Youth Almost Hangs Himself While Asleep

Geneva.—After he hanged himself while sleeping, Fritz Kessler, eighteen, was rescued by his mother in the nick of time, at Geneva, Switzerland. The mother heard sounds of a struggle and made a hurried investigation. She found the youth hanging from the ceiling of his room and cut him down. Revived, the youth refused to believe his mother's story until she displayed the severed rope.

CHILD ROPED TO WALL BY PARENTS

Kept Prisoner Every Workday for Year and a Half.

Chicago.—For a year and a half Eddie Rock, four years old, spent every weekday tied to a five-foot rope fastened to a staple in the wall of his parents' home. Eddie was kept a virtual prisoner in his home while his father worked as a painter and while his mother washed dishes in a restaurant near by. Now the father and mother are in jail and Eddie is free.

Neighbors heard the boy crying one morning and called police. Officers found the lad bound with the rope. A dish of food sat near by and two kittens played about the boy's feet. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rock, his parents, were arrested when they returned home from work.

The invention, designed for an analysis and a study of both cardiac and respiratory disorders, is expected to be of far-reaching significance to both the medical profession and the general public.

The recording and reproducing devices were developed by Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston, noted physician and educator, and Dr. Clarence Gamble of Philadelphia, after 18 years of experimentation.

Winter in North Fatal to South Sea Bride

Milwaukee.—Less than a year ago John F. Diger stopped at the island of Tutuila on a world tour with the navy. Tutuila is the island of the Samoan group whose charms Robert Louis Stevenson has so often sung, and there Mr. Diger met Lillian Pearson, the daughter of an American naval officer and a full-blooded Samoan.

After a courtship of four months, special permission was obtained from the governor and they were married. The pretty little bride was eager for the wonders of the United States. She arrived with her husband in Milwaukee two days before Thanksgiving. But the climatic change was too much for her body, unused to the rigors of a northern winter, and as the months wore on the eyes lost their sparkle. A slight cold developed into pneumonia. She died more than 6,000 miles away from home.

Tags Will Keep Track of Whales' Itinerary

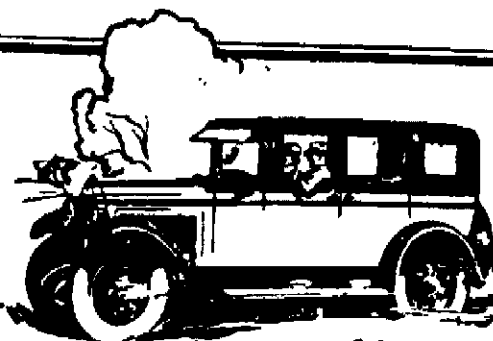

Victoria, B. C.—Whales counting bright metal disks from various parts of their simple anatomies will not be an uncommon sight in the Pacific ocean this year. Dozens of the sea mammals will be marked in this way as a result of systematic attempt by Pacific whalers to find out the whales' domestic habits. Operators off the Canadian coast and around the Falkland Islands will tag a number of animals by means of specially made harpoons. These large darts will carry metal tags on which will be inscribed details of the place where they were "killed." When the whales are marked are captured later it will be possible to trace their movements.

Creation of Mankind
Flattering to Indians

An ancient Sioux legend of the creation is a popular story in the West today. Chauncey Yellowrobe, son of a Rosebud Sioux chieftain and a teacher in the federal Indian school at Rapid City, S. D., always includes this story in his repertoire. "When the Great Spirit had created his wonderful land here of mountains and prairies and streams and trees," he tells his pupils, "he sought to fashion a human being worthy to enjoy its grandeur. He shaped the clay in his hands and baked it in his campfire, but when he drew it forth it was pale and had not baked rapidly enough, and he threw it behind him."

"He molded another form and laid it in the hot ashes, but when he drew it out it was blackened and crisp. So he tossed it to one side. Then he modeled a new figure, even more carefully than before, packed the red coals around it, and when he lifted it from the fire it was red and sound and perfect."

"And he put it into the great wilderness of the West, and it multiplied its kind and was the tenant of the Great Spirit's own garden."—Pathfinder Magazine.

DANGERS OF PROSPERITY.

Money in the average man's pocket burns its way out. Prosperity too often brings discontent. As with the individual, so it is with states and nations. People will struggle against adversity, and be drawn closer together by hardships. But when the necessity for self-preservation is removed, dissatisfaction, envy, jealousy and ambition creep in. That is the greatest danger our country faces today. We have been unusually prosperous. We have had more money than the necessities of life required.

The "cure-all doctor" with his caldron of steaming political theories offers us a remedy for our real or imaginary problems. Like the magician who can produce a bowl of gold fish out of a silk hat, he offers us laws to help this class or that class, at the expense of another class. But when the curtain goes down on his act, he has our tax money, and we have had the pleasure of seeing him do his political tricks.

Our country is ripe for the "cure-all doctors." They can show us what is wrong with our present prosperity, and how by adopting their courses of treatment we can put two dollars in our pocket where we now have one, and better yet make "the other fellow" pay the bill.

The dog with the bone that saw his shadow in the water tried to grab the bone of the other dog, and lost the one he had. We not only have a bone, but a good juicy steak in our teeth today. Our banks are full of money, our workmen are the highest paid on earth, most of our farm crops are bringing good prices, transportation is above normal, building is at record figures, power development has broken all records, our homes are filled with electric lights, telephones, radios, automobiles and every modern convenience under the sun.

As a nation, can we stand prosperity, or will we allow ourselves to be duped by the "cure-alls" who would offer visionary theories in trade for proven advantages which we now enjoy?

KITCHEN MILEAGE.

In the industrious pursuit of its investigations looking toward labor-saving and efficiency, the Department of Agriculture induced an obliging woman to wear a pedometer while at work in her kitchen and thus discovered that a housewife walks a quarter of a mile when she bakes a lemon pie. Though a good pie may be worth that much travel, the Department thinks that a housewife should not be obliged to walk that far while baking a lemon or any kind of pie, however toothsome the product may be, and therefore advises smaller kitchens with more compact arrangements. The Department estimates, in fact, that a cook who has her table, stove, sink and cupboards properly placed could save as much as a mile and a half on her daily kitchen mileage, and suggests that by saving "steps" in this way she could secure leisure to expend the gain out of doors in more inspiring and health-giving surroundings.

Though all this may interest housewives, doubtless the most of them know that the more compact kitchen is not a new idea and has already entered into wide experiment. The kitchenette in the big town and city apartments is as small, compact and handy as a ship's galley, if not more so. In these the cook does not travel and if she wore a pedometer it would register no mileage. She merely stands and reaches for what she needs, her arms, not her feet, being the traveler. The kitchenette serves its purpose and meets an imperative need, but the rural housewife would find it disagreeably cramped and no doubt prefer even "mileage" to enforced standing on one spot. Moreover, she would be loath to surrender her wide, sunny, sunny kitchen, which in many cases serves as a clean and attractive living room as well. The Department is likely to find that in spite of the wasted mileage, the kitchenette plan will never be generally popular in the country.

While no exact comparison can be made, domestic gasoline prices are both relatively and actually much lower than prevail generally in other parts of the world. It is shown by a Department of Commerce tabulation of retail gasoline and kerosene prices in various countries throughout the world on or about April 1, 1926. Factors making for inequality in prices include distance from sources of supply, quantity consumed, transportation costs, import duties, excise taxes, distribution and marketing costs, quality of gasoline sold, and many others. Foreign prices a gallon range from 15 cents in Bucharest, Roumania, to 95 cents in British South Africa. Average of tank wagon price in 30 representative American cities on April 10, was 17 cents a gallon, with taxes in the various states ranging from one to five cents; and service stations price two to four cents a gallon above the tank wagon price, plus taxes, where levied.

Prosperous Detroit has nearly tripled its population in a decade, which is fine; but the American Social Hygiene Association, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, reports after investigation that Detroit has become "the blackest, vilest city in the United States, barring none, so far as vice is concerned"—which is obviously too high a price to pay for even prosperity by leaps and bounds.

THE EYES AND HEADACHES.

You have headaches occurring from time to time and as the eyes cause more headaches than any other one thing, you consult an oculist or an optometrist.

He puts you through the tests and tells you that you have perfect eyesight as you are able to read the print correctly at the specified distance.

You feel relieved, and feel therefore that glasses will not be necessary, but you are reminded that glasses may be necessary to relieve the "strain" on the eyes, even if the eyes are perfect.

A simple test you can try out for yourself if you have the time to do it, is to bandage up the eyes for a few days or a week, and see if this relieves your headache. If you think it is just one eye that is causing the trouble you could bandage it for a few days and thus be enabled to get about and do your ordinary work.

Sometimes the amount of short sightedness or astigmatism is very slight and you might expect the optometrist to suggest that glasses are hardly necessary in your case. However, as someone has pointed out, it is not the extent of the defect of eyesight, but how much you use the eyes with this defect, that determines the severity of the headache.

Many cases of nausea and even vomiting can be traced to defective eyesight. Proper fitting glasses clear up the trouble.

Double vision whether in one eye or both is often accompanied by headache, and is due to some defect in the way the image strikes the back of the eye.

However, the point about the matter is that as mentioned above you may have perfect eyesight and yet have frequent headaches. If so then it is because of some unwise habit in the use of the eyes. This may be using the eyes with a strong light striking both your book or other object and also striking your eyes directly, reading in poor light, reading too long at one time, and similar methods of straining your eyes. The simple method of closing the eyes occasionally for two or three minutes may mean all the difference between a headache or relief from same.

The eyes are worth much to you, a little care and common sense will be sufficient to keep you free from headaches if there are no defects of vision uncorrected.

Great French Expedition Against the Seneca Landed on Irondequoit Bay Shore, July 10, 1687.

In 1685 the Marquis De Nonville, a colonel in the French army, brave and sagacious, was appointed governor of Canada, with instructions to "humble the pride of the Iroquois," who were the friends of the English and had rejected overtures from the French.

He took post at Fort Frontenac, on the site of Kingston, Canada, which was then a strong fortification and the center of the vast fur trade on Lake Ontario. It was also settled by many Indians, who had gathered around it. Here De Nonville prepared for an expedition against the Five Nations.

He declared to his sovereign that the Indians sustained themselves only by the aid of the English, who were "the chief promoters of the insolence and arrogance of the Iroquois."

He tried to induce them to meet him in council, and a few went to Frontenac, but Governor Dongan invited them to a council in New York City, and there conjured them not to listen to the persuasions of the French.

Finally in May, 1687, De Nonville was joined by eight hundred regulars from France, and soon afterwards assembled two thousand French regulars, Canadians and Indians, and in June, proceeded at their head up the St. Lawrence River, "to humble the Seneca."

De Nonville was striking a blow at the commercial interest of England, as well as at her claim to the territory of the Iroquois.

He sent for the saintly Father Lamberville, the devoted missionary to the Onondaga, to bring a delegation of their chiefs to his headquarters, Father Lamberville, relying upon De Nonville's word that it was to be a council of peace, easily persuaded the chiefs to accompany him. Fifty of them were at once secured, put in irons, and sent to France for galley slaves, the heart-broken Lamberville narrowly escaping with his life from the betrayed Indians.

De Nonville coasted along the southern shores of Lake Ontario to Irondequoit Bay, in present Monroe County, where he landed July 10, 1687, and was joined by some western Indians, ancient enemies of the Iroquois, with Tonti, the companion of La Salle, at their head.

De Nonville threw up a palisade at the landing place, and using it as his base, penetrated to what is now Ontario County.

The Seneca were not so ignorant of the movements of the French army as was supposed. They had seen the fleet of two hundred bateaux and as many canoes on the lake. Hidden in the woods they tracked their western enemy. Swift runners had warned every village of the danger. They had even made overtures for peace, which the French refused.

So the great army took up its march into the interior, leaving four hundred men in the fort at Irondequoit Bay.

The Seneca burned their own villages, sent their helpless to places of safety, and lured the invaders into an ambushade, but the bravery of the Frenchmen, in spite of a panic which struck the allied Indians, was such that De Nonville was able to repulse his assailants.

The next day two old Seneca prisoners, after having been cooked by the Jesuit priests, were cooked and eaten by the savages and the French.

Withdrawing to a point in present Monroe County, De Nonville took possession of the Seneca country, in the name of King Louis, with pompous ceremonies.

After destroying all the stored corn, the growing crops, cabins and a vast number of swine belonging to the natives, De Nonville returned to Irondequoit Bay and thence to Montreal.

The loss of the French was one hundred men and ten Indians. The Seneca lost eighty warriors, beside the chiefs sent to France as galley slaves, whose treacherous taking gave the death-blow to Jesuit missions among the Five Nations.

ELEANOR GUNN

On Fashions

NEW STANDARDS GOVERNING ENSEMBLES AND OTHER IMPORTANT THINGS ARE ESTABLISHED AT THIS SEASON.

In the Center the Same Material Is Used in an Interesting Smock Suggestive of a Coat.

The Frock on the Right of Red and White Print Features the Smart Diagonal Line Which Is Emphasized by White Piping.

One is, of course, entitled to a certain amount of self-expression at all times, but this season, fashion seems less arbitrary than usual and gives us plenty of ribbon, in lieu of hope, with which to hang ourselves. There is practically no restraint exercised over color schemes. Many of them are as futuristic as the most daring canvas. Design seems to be largely a matter of angles, yet the most ensemble is effective. There is a certain youthful swing about summer clothes, a certain flexibility and in one sense a nonchalance, as the rigid rule governing the ensemble has been broken so often that no one objects to a coat which makes no pretense to matching a dress, or even a skirt with which it is worn. It is smart at least to have a suit which does just that—does not match, excepting, of course, the foundation of both jacket and skirt must be of the same color. The separate coat, that is the long one, need take nothing into consideration. It is no longer expected to match anything, except perhaps the hat, if one still likes that idea. Many think the success of the smock has influenced the sports coat and possibly the dress idea, too. There are yokes common to both, patch pockets, and a certain, greatly-to-be-desired all-enveloping quality. Belts, one finds, have crept into position, but each figure is fortunately a law unto itself. The rank and file find the low waistline more flattering. PIGS' PLAYGROUND

Poor old Porky Pig had been very much worried and quite upset because his grandchildren and great grandchildren were constantly going down to the stream.

"They had said they went in wading, and Porky was very unhappy."

"They are trying to be stylish," he grunted crossly.

"You are a very Rude Little Pig."

Just as he was grunting to himself in this way, along came Brother Bacon Junior.

He spoke cheerfully to Grandfather Porky:

"Won't you come down to the stream with us, Grandpa?"

"Your grandfather Porky go to a stream where there is clean water and no mud?"

"How dare you ask such a question? You are a very rude little pig."

"Won't you come? We may surprise you."

"You were all learning how to be clean in a silly pig school down by the stream," said Grandpa Porky angrily. "I know about it."

"It won't be any surprise to me."

"But won't you come and see how we've learnt our lessons?"

"You see, maybe we've been slow and stupid and that will delight you, won't it, Grandpa, Great Grandpa?"

"Yes, yes," grunted Porky. "If you were all stupid I'd be very glad."

"And now, come to think of it, I do believe I'll come."

"I have nothing much to do this morning except to take three naps and two of those will probably do me just as well."

Brother Bacon Junior led the way and Porky followed until they reached the stream.

There were all the pigs in wading—but to Porky's great joy there was no clear water to be seen. Nothing but a muddy stream!

"I always thought," grunted Porky, "this was a clean stream with no good mud."

"And where is the school?"

"The school was here," squealed Brother Bacon Junior, "but now it's a playground."

"You see, Grandpa, Great Grandpa, we were so stupid in school that it was of no use to teach us."

"We just had to find mud and dig it up and we spoiled a nice clean school!"

"It does my pig heart good to hear those words," said Porky.

"And how happy I am that my dear little grandchildren and great grandchildren are muddy and stupid."

"What a sweet little dirty, muddy feet you all have. Bless your dear little pig hearts."

"You've made Grandfather Porky Pig a very, very happy, relieved and delighted grandfather." And all the pigs squealed and grunted their pleasure at making Grandfather Porky Pig so pleased.

Crack Was Moving

A little girl who had been allowed to sit at the table with invited guests exclaimed in a loud whisper, "Oh, Mother, look at this long hair in my soup!"

"Hush, dear, that is only a crack in the plate," replied her mother.

"Yes, Mother, but the crack's moving."

Not Fond of Ears

One night we were having oyster stew for supper. Walter, aged four, was not eating and his mother asked him why. He explained: "Why, mother, I do not want to eat ears for my supper."

Penalty for Wearing Pumps

Geppie (to little John)—So you say your sister is sick on account of getting her feet wet.

John—Yes, mom; and my mother says that's what she gets for wearing pumps.

Just as Good

"Do you have animal crackers?"

"No, but we have some very nice dog biscuits."

If You Get What He Means

"Pa, what's a schillia?"

"A schillia? Why—a schillia is something there isn't anything of."

Old Jewish Historian

Charles Joseph, whose Jewish name was Jacobson Ben Mordecai, was born in St. A. D. "The History of the Jewish War," "Jewish Antiquities," an "Apology of the Jews Against Apolon" and an autobiography seem to have occupied him from about the year 70 until the time of his death.

Adversity's Good Point

Adversity has the effect of eliciting talents which, in prosperous circumstances, would have lain dormant.

Fourth Binnewater

Fourth Binnewater, July 10.—A large crowd attended the dance on Saturday night. All hope it will continue.

Mary Deltz is spending a week at her home here.

Nearly all the houses here were filled with visitors or city boarders over the Fourth.

The Ladies' Aid held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. M. Freer on Wednesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Deltz and son, Theron, with other friends, all of Schoenectady, visited Mr. Deltz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mont. G. Deltz over the Fourth.

Mr. Freer has finished painting the clubhouse. It is a real improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Deltz and daughter, Genevieve, of Poughkeepsie, camped at their place here over the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Lasher entertained a number of friends from Staten Island over the week-end. Mrs. Lasher also spent the Fourth at her home here.

Mrs. Harry Van Seyver and son, Harry Jr., of Westbrookville are spending some time with her sister, Mrs. C. Clark, at Hill Crest Lodge.

Mrs. Anna Deltz and granddaughter, Anna Rejcek, of West Camp are staying at Mrs. Deltz's home here.

G. Walton and wife spent Sunday night and Monday with his son, Everett Walton, and family, of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Booth and Mr. and Mrs. George Joy enjoyed a motor trip on Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Clark entertained a number of guests over the week-end and the Fourth.

Robert Freer and family took his father and mother on a picnic and fishing trip on the Fourth.

Orange Harvest

In Florida oranges are taken from the trees from the latter part of October and the first of November until April. In California they are gathered all the year around. The new crop begins about November 1.

THE PURPOSE OF OUR CAMPAIGN IS TO RAISE A FUND FOR THE ERECTION OF A FIRST-CLASS GYMNASIUM FOR THE USE OF TRUCK DRIVERS EMPLOYED BY THE VARIOUS INTER-CITY FREIGHT TRUCKING CONCERNS. IT WILL PROVIDE AN ATTRACTIVE PLACE FOR THEM TO SPEND THEIR LEISURE TIME WHILE AWAITING THE RETURN TRIPS—IF I COULD GET YOU, AS A LEADING SOCIAL LIGHT, TO HEAD THE LIST WITH A LIBERAL CONTRIBUTION—

WHY, YES, MRS. NOODLE I'LL GLADLY DONATE A HUNDRED DOLLARS TO SUCH A WORTHY CAUSE—

OUR THEORY, SIR, IS THIS! THAT CHAUFFEURS IDLE IN THE CITY, SOMETIMES FOR A WHOLE DAY, ARE AT A LOSS TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH THEMSELVES—IN ORDER TO ALLEVIATE THEIR MONOTONY, WE PROPOSE TO EQUIP A RECREATIONAL CENTER WITH EVERY MODERN FACILITY FOR HEALTHFUL EXERCISE AND THE BUILDING-UP OF THE BODY—NOW A HANDSOME DONATION FROM YOU AN INDUSTRIAL GIANT—

CERTAINLY, MR. SKIFF, I'M ALWAYS READY TO HELP—HOW WILL TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS DO?

IN THE MEANTIME, MR. AND MRS. HORACE HOOK, THE POOR AND DISTANT RELATIVES WHO HAVE HEARD OF HEM'S RUMORED FORTUNE, ARE DECREASING THE DISTANCE AS RAPIDLY AS A FAST TRAIN CAN CARRY THEM.

OH, HORACE! WILL YOU LOOK AT THEM PRAIRIES—IMAGINE HAVING TO CUT ALL THAT GRASS—IT GIVES ME THE CREEPS—

CERTAINLY, I KNOW THIS IS A PARLOR CAR BUT I'VE ALWAYS SMOKED IN THE PARLOR AT HOME!

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, July 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Abram Brundage spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hoffman at Gardiner.

Miss Catherine Bell is visiting relatives at Mamaroneck.

Nell Poncher is spending a week's vacation at Danbury, Connecticut, with her sister, Mrs. H. Ives.

Wednesday night, July 7, the first of the summer dances was given at Colonial Hall. Booth's orchestra from Walden has been engaged for the season and will be a feature at this hall every Wednesday night during July and August.

At the meeting of the local board of trustees of the New Paltz State Normal School, held June 9, 1926, Daniel Smiley offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: With profound sorrow the board records the death on May 10, 1926, of Alton B. Parker, a member of this board since December 23, 1885. In more recent years distance from the school and pressure of public duties made it impossible for him to be a frequent attendee of the meetings or take active part in the work of the board, but his sympathetic influence was felt and appreciated. His associates realized his desire to maintain the high ideals in educational work which characterized him as man and leader in both private and public life. His gentlemanly and courteous demeanor was a pattern for the students who are our care, while his broad educational attainments eminently fitted him for a place in our council.

Miss Cornelia Kaiser is entertaining guests for a few days.

Mrs. Esther Yeot entertained guests over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Krom entertained their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DuMund, and daughter, Pearl, of Kingston over the week-end.

Mrs. Reed Parker entertained relatives over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth DuBois were host and hostess at Huguenot Grange held Saturday evening, July 3, at Grange Hall.

Mrs. A. H. Schoonmaker spent Friday in Albany.

The Dutch Guild met Thursday, July 8, at the home of Mrs. David DuBois at Forest Glen.

Thursday, July 2, State Troopers stationed on the New Paltz-Highland state road near Ohlerville, held up every passing car to find out whether the driver had a new driver's license.

Mrs. Alice G. Locke of Modena, New York, has sold her farm of about 30 acres to John J. Griffith of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

The ladies of St. Andrew's Guild will hold a garden party and fair, July 15. The Old Fort on Huguenot street, will be the scene of this coming event.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Eligor of Albany have received announcements of the marriage of their son, Charles J. Eligor, to Miss Jean Warrick, daughter of K. B. Warrick of Brooklyn. Young Mr. Eligor, who is a nephew of William and Charles Blecker of New Paltz, was admitted to the bar in 1924, and is now with the Home Title Insurance Company.

MOMBACCUS.

Mombaccus, July 10.—The Fourth passed very quietly. Although there were a few accidents, no one was hurt seriously.

Mrs. Goldin Markle was a caller out of town.

Mrs. Della Decker is entertaining her grandchildren from New Jersey.

Mrs. Sampson Osterhout of Poughkeepsie, who was a resident of this place in her girlhood, is very sick after her operation. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Claud Christians is doing good in his quarry. He has several men employed.

H. Kesselman has a number of roomers. The weather is too cold for people from the city.

Bertie T. Diamond is home for a few days. He is staying with his aunt, Mrs. Martha C. Green, at Leesville.

J. Clyde Diamond is visiting his friends at Accord.

Old Jewish Historian

Charles Joseph, whose Jewish name was Jacobson Ben Mordecai, was born in St. A. D. "The History of the Jewish War," "Jewish Antiquities," an "Apology of the Jews Against Apolon" and an autobiography seem to have occupied him from about the year 70 until the time of his death.

Adversity's Good Point

Adversity has the effect of eliciting talents which, in prosperous circumstances, would have lain dormant.

Boxing Programs Scored Big Hit

Fisher-Werner Affair Was Fast and Furious—Tub of Flour and "Battle Royal" Hit of Evening.

The Kingston Fair Grounds open air arena housed a combination of boxing bouts, comedy and a "battle royal" Friday evening which was everything in the way of success. The only unsuccessful part of the program was the crowd. It was a very small assemblage within the park compared with the wealth of fun on the program.

Five flat matches were on the program, three four round scrapes and two six round battles. Two of the fights were especially exciting, the main go with Joe Werner and Charles Fisher the principal and the Thompson-Brown affair. This second match was intended to go six rounds but ended abruptly in the fourth when Kid Brown scored a knock-out.

The Werner-Fisher scrap was the only one to go six rounds. Fisher aimed his weapon at Joe's head and Werner shot mostly into his opponent's stomach. Fisher seemed to be making the most of his punches in the last two but in the sixth time Werner was not the least bit ineffective by any means. Werner came out of the melee with a badly bruised eye.

Brown-Kayes Cleveland. Cleveland Thompson of this city and Kid Brown of East Kingston, both colored, started off as if they would both score a K. O. Cleveland began to tire in the third and early in the fourth Brown pushed out a blow that felled Thompson flat to the mat. Cleveland was as far out as the recipient of a K. O. blow could be.

The Lucardo Peck match which went four rounds was a good bout. For the first two rounds "Frenchy" DeWiz and Joe Brown of Newburgh didn't do much but then in their final two exhibited all the action anyone could wish for. Billy Loitz of New Paltz appearing for the first time in the ring and George Fitzgibbon of Newburgh stirred up plenty of excitement in their four sessions. At the end of the fourth they were sitting each other on the head and then they both went out of the squared circle.

After the bouts, two colored lads dived in a tub of flour for a coin then gave snappy demonstrations of boxing and the Charleston which were not on the program but nevertheless won big. The "battle royal" with six colored lads armed with gloves lambasting each other from all corners was the hit of the evening. It took a little over ten minutes for one of the fighters with style and a mountain of punch to send his fellows through the ropes.

Rookie Patrolman Shot. New York, July 10.—James Broderick, rookie patrolman, was shot three times and dangerously wounded today by members of a gang of six hold-up men who attempted unsuccessfully to steal the payroll of the Loft Candy Company factory. He was dressed in civilian clothes.

Bannon Company Busy. The L. F. Bannon Plumbing, Heating & Contracting Company of 402 Broadway, is installing new toilets, basins, showers and plumbing work for the Kingston Gas & Electric Company at their plant on the Strand.

Furnishes Rectory. S. L. Torrey, the furniture dealer of 453 Broadway has completely furnished the rectory of Father Alexander Cahill at Saint John's, Staten Island. Father Cahill until recently was stationed at Sawkill.

DIED.

DAY.—Entered into rest, Friday evening, July 9, 1926, George Porter Day, beloved husband of Anna F. Kipp.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral at the residence on the Plank Road, town of Ulster, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Wilkewick Cemetery.

VAUGHN.—At High Falls, N. Y., Anthony J. Vaughn, beloved son of Catherine Harrigan and Joseph Vaughn and beloved brother of Mrs. Charles Spence and John Vaughn.

Funeral from the home of his parents at High Falls, Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock thence to St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, where at 10 o'clock a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

In loving memory of Beatrice Tompkins who left us four years ago today.

Then be it as our Father wills,
We will not weep for thee,
Thou livest joy thy spirit fills,
Pure sunshine thou dost give,
The sunshine of eternal rest,
Able to cure where thou art best,
And we will ever onward fare,
And when God wills, shall meet thee there.

PARENTS and BROTHERS
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tompkins and Sons.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 10.—Today's sharp session ended in a burst of strength, closing prices being higher in practically all sections of the list. The late strength was so marked that virtually all declines of earlier in the day were wiped out.

United States Steel closed at 110, an advance of one point from the close of yesterday.

Another recent market leader, General Motors, dealt heavy punishment to the bears, snapping back to 150%, a gain of 2% over yesterday's finish.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry jumped 6 1/2 to 227 1/2. Woolworth Company gained 2 1/2 to 158 1/2; Coca Cola advanced 1 1/2 to 151 1/2; Allied Chemical and Dye moved up 1 1/2 to 130 1/2; American Can was up 3/4 to 55 1/2 and Allis Chalmers was up 3/4 to 59 1/2.

In the railroad group, Southern Pacific gained 1 1/2 to 17 1/2; Chesapeake & Ohio advanced 1 1/2 to 142 1/2; and Pere Marquette was up a full point to 98 1/2.

Oil was comparatively inactive. Lago Petroleum scored a point gain to 23.

Motor stocks displayed marked activity in the last hour and prices in this group were higher. Mack Truck rose 1 1/2 to 119 1/2.

Public utilities were featured at 2 1/2 point rise by Columbia Gas & Electric at 84 1/2. Interborough Rapid Transit, upon whose lines a strike is now in effect, closed unchanged at 13.

Southern Pacific's advance to 107 1/2 moved that stock into new high ground for the year.

Call money 4 1/2 per cent.

Dances at Home.

Chicago, July 10.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes, accompanied by Mrs. Dawes, arrived here today on the Twentieth Century Limited. A large delegation met the vice president's train, including his two adopted children, Virginia and Ivan. The vice president said he will remain in Evanston, his home, for a few days, then will depart on a western speaking tour.

James and Turness Land.

Solo Country Club, Columbus, O., July 10.—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta and Joe Turness, of New York, were only three strokes apart in their contest for the leadership in the National Open Golf Championship at noon today.

Treasury Balance.
Washington, July 10.—Treasury balance July 9, $223,342,372.71.

Threaten to Stop Sprinkling

Hours for use of hose for sprinkling are from 6 to 8 a. m. and from 6 to 8 p. m. The Water Commissioners charge that water is being used extravagantly and outside these hours and threaten to shut off all sprinkling unless the rules are obeyed.

Cravaths Part After 32 Years

New York, July 10.—After thirty-two years of apparently happy married life, Paul D. Cravath, sixty-five, famous lawyer, and his wife, formerly Agnes Huntington, opera singer, have parted.

"Mrs. Cravath," said a statement issued from Cravath's office today, "has decided that she prefers to live apart from her husband, and Mr. Cravath, while regretting the separation, has yielded to Mrs. Cravath's wishes in that regard."

No clue to the reason for the separation was given. The rift between the Cravaths is said to have appeared only a month ago when Cravath returned from a European yachting trip.

The romance of the Cravaths thrilled both stage and society in the early nineties. It was described as "an ideal love match." She was then a famous singer. Since their marriage, Cravath has become a distinct success. He has been counsel for some of the biggest concerns in America; did unusual work for the American Government during the war and was decorated for meritorious services and frequently has been mentioned as a possibility for ambassador to the Court of St. James.

About the Folks

Mrs. Frances Mager and granddaughter, Miss Frances Finn of this city, are spending a month's vacation at Amsterdam, N. Y.

Mrs. Floyd H. Donohue, who has been ill for the past five months is slowly improving at the home of her father, Elisha Merrick, at Krumville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Irwin and daughter, Miss Harriet Enlist, have returned to their home in this city after spending several weeks in Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Scanlon of 610 Delaware avenue are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a son, Lawrence, under the care of Dr. W. J. O'Leary and Mrs. Ryan.

Mr. and Mrs. William Messing and two daughters have motored home to East Jefferson, N. H., after spending a week with Mr. Messing's sisters, Mrs. Edward J. Budney and Mrs. Floyd E. Perrine, and with his brothers.

Dr. Philip W. DeGarmo and wife of Poughkeepsie sailed on Friday, July 2, for Europe on the Royal Mail Steamship Orbita. Dr. DeGarmo, who is a son of Alderman Philip DeGarmo of this city, is to take a special course in eye, ear, nose and throat treatment at the University at Vienna, Austria.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Anthony J. Vaughn, a popular young man of High Falls, died at the family home Friday, after a brief illness. He was a valued employee of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, and had a wide circle of friends in the community. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vaughn, one sister, Mrs. Charles Springer of Poughkeepsie and one brother, John, at home. Funeral from his late home Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, at 10 o'clock with a high Mass of requiem for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale.

George Porter Day for the past sixty-five years a resident of Ulster county, died Friday evening at his home on the Plank Road in the town of Ulster after a long illness. Mr. Day was born in Cairo, Greene county. He is survived by his wife, Anna F. Kipp, and a daughter, Mrs. Irene Berger of this city, and four sisters, Mrs. Fannie Holstein of this city, Mrs. Catherine Ackerman of Auburn, Mrs. J. Mackey of New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. Granville Krum of Brooklyn. Funeral services will be held from the late residence Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, interment in Wilkewick Cemetery. Mr. Day was a well known and highly respected resident of the town of Ulster and was also widely known in Kingston where he had done business for many years. He was among the last of the home butchers, having conducted an extensive slaughtering business in years past before the large western packing houses began to invade the eastern market.

Etruria in History

In ancient geography Etruria was a division of Italy, north and west of the Tiber and west of the Apennine mountains, and including the valley of the Arno. Modern Tuscany and the northern half of the province of Rome cover about the same territory today. Etruria proper constituted a confederation of twelve cities, each of which was independent. The people of Etruria, called Etruscans, were the most advanced of any in Italy before the rise of Rome. They had a highly developed political organization. They were at the height of their power about 500 B. C., and were the allies of Carthage. With the rise of Rome came a struggle in which the Etruscans were defeated, becoming virtually tributary to the B. C. C. in the more powerful Roman state.—Baltimore.

Joos in History

Batavia, the capital of the island of Java, and of all the Dutch possessions in the East Indies, was built by that people about the year 1619. The French seized the place, but it was captured on August 28, 1810, by a British force, led by Sir Samuel Auchmutz, and restored to the Dutch in 1814.

American Nature Expedition Safe

Washington, July 10.—After battling for their lives in the breakers off Unimak Island, Alaska, and landing beneath a belching volcano, all members of the American Nature Association's expedition to the Aleutian Islands were safe today, according to a telegram received at the association headquarters here.

With camera equipment and provisions loaded in small boats, the party attempted to land at the base of Shishaldin Volcano late Wednesday night to take pictures. High breakers dumped three members into the ocean. According to the telegram, the others rescued them after themselves landing safely.

Resigns

Lincoln C. Andrews, dry enforcement chief, to leave service as soon as reorganization is completed.

Suggestion Great Aid in Preserving Youth

"My, but Americans are young looking people!" exclaimed Miss Alma Law, an Australian, on her first visit to San Francisco. "There don't seem to be any old ones. And such handsome, well dressed and pleasant folks."

We do look young and, in fact, are looking younger every day. This is partly the applied science of the pulchritude parlor, but in larger measure it is due to a mental attitude in which a native optimism is reinforced by friendly suggestion.

We have not discovered the elixir of life—that is, not the elixir put in bottles—but we have the secret of keeping young, and it is telling each other that we look so.

Americans do know how to greet one another, and though greetings cannot make any difference to the calendar they may make a world of difference to one's appearance. Years are cut off when we are told we are looking well, and if we feel younger we cannot help looking younger.

Statistically we know that modern medical science has added at least twenty years to the average American life, but the average man, and certainly the average woman, looks ten years younger than he and she did 20 years ago.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Central Control for All Factory Windows

Anyone who has got up in the middle of the night to open and close windows would balk on being required to open a mile of windows; but if he were a night watchman in a certain Eastern factory, all he would have to do would be to press a button, and electric motors would open or close all the windows without any further attention on his part.

This factory has a building four stories high and more than 500 feet long, equipped with steel sash windows which open at the top, and an electric motor to turn the shafts upon which the windows are swung. It is so arranged that the windows on any side of any floor can be opened by separate controls, or the windows of the entire factory can be simultaneously closed. This system permits of a very considerable saving of industrial labor and at the same time assures a maintenance of adequate ventilation and protection against the weather.—American Mutual Magazine.

New England Rag Dolls

Old rag dolls were treasured heirlooms of many New England homes. Of all sizes, and attired in many sorts of quaint costumes, they had some points in common. Their faces were invariably flat, their hands were stiff and rigid, their toes turned out in a most alarming manner. Sometimes they had black button eyes; frequently their prim faces were painted with beet and fruit juices; occasionally eyes, nose and mouth were embroidered. For hair they were tresses of yarn or hemp or wisps of real hair. Their garments were full-skirted gowns of sprigged muslins or points and they often wore umbrellas of the same materials as their dresses. In one New Hampshire family still lives an old rag doll who for over 60 years has pleased its daughters. True, she has become somewhat the worse for wear, but her diminished features have been recovered by the simple expedient of re-covering her face with a piece of fresh cloth.—Antiquarian Magazine.

Famous Old English "Bead"

The sobriquet "Beau Nash" was bestowed upon Richard Nash, a fashionable personage of the eighteenth century. He was born in Wales in 1674, and studied law, but later became a gambler, for which he seemed to have a greater liking and aptitude and from which he derived an ample revenue. In 1704 he transferred from a vulgar and proscribed watering place like a gay and fashionable resort. The city of Bath, in gratitude for his services, placed his statue between those of Newton and Pope. He lived to be eighty-seven, but his last years were spent in poverty, owing to the act of parliament that suppressed gambling.—Kansas City Star.

Sap Exerts High Pressure

The pressure of the sap that flows from a tree is as high as the pressure of the sap in a tree during the summer is said by an American scientist to be as high as 150 pounds a square inch, or equal to the steam pressure in a locomotive boiler.

Agents Raided "One-Eyed Jack"

Federal Agent McKay and his assistants were in Kingston today and this noon raided "One-Eyed Jack's Place" on Mill street, but no arrests were made as no intoxicants were found. It was not learned whether any other places were raided or not.

Railroad Mergers Becoming Popular

Interstate Commerce Commission Is Considering Six or More Consolidation Plans at Present—Van Sweringen Merger Opposed.

Washington, July 10.—With the apparent scrapping of the Interstate Commerce Commission's tentative plan of consolidating the railroads of the country into 19 major groups, the government's railroad regulatory board today is considering six or more consolidation plans of outstanding importance.

Before the hot weather ends the commission expects to receive three big merger plans, involving many thousand miles of trackage and running into billions of dollars in capitalization. These are the billion dollar Van Sweringen merger, involving the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette, Hocking Valley and Nickel Plate; the absorption by the Kansas City Southern of the Cotton Belt and Missouri-Kansas-Texas, known as the "Katy," sponsored by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, and the merger of the St. Louis-San Francisco with the Rock Island system.

Decision by the commission in one of these mergers is imminent. It involves the consolidation of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton with the Detroit & Ironton, both of which systems are owned by Henry Ford. Despite the fact that a group of minority stockholders, representing less than 2 per cent of the stock of the former road, are opposing the merger, it is believed the commission will authorize the consolidation of the two roads for operating purposes.

Among the other merger plans before the commission are the inclusion of the Virginian Railway with the Norfolk & Western, the Lehigh & New England with the Reading system, the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic with the Atlantic Coast Line, and the taking over by the latter of the Newberry & Laurens, of South Carolina.

These proposed consolidations are being bitterly fought by various interests that feel they are not being given enough consideration by those who are sponsoring the mergers. The commission is giving all interests involved ample opportunity to present their case and the evidence will be carefully weighed before any decision is reached.

Opposes Van Sweringen Merger.

Richmond, Va., July 10.—George S. Kemp, an active member of the committee which represented the Chesapeake & Ohio minority stockholders before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the fight against the original Nickel Plate merger proposal, declared today that the new terms proposed by the Van Sweringens from the standpoint of the C. & O. and Hocking Valley stockholders "is not to be considered."

"I am amazed at the audacity of the Van Sweringens, in presenting such a proposal after the scathing decision handed down by the commission on their original plan," said Kemp. "I do not see how the commission can give its consent to the new plan as proposed."

An Art Exhibit.

Captain Winfield Scott Clime, veteran of the World War, and an artist, will have an exhibition and sale of his work at Hunt Memorial Hall, the week of July 12, afternoon and evening, 2 to 5 and 7 to 9, at Ellenville, N. Y. Benefit for Veterans' Memorial Hospital.

Troth

Man's idea of pledging himself to marriage, according to some sources, comes down to us from the Roman ages. "Troth," which was what the Romans called the pledging of oneself, is still ours in the shape of the English word "troth."

In the Roman era great ceremony was attached to the act, but these traditional rites have been simplified gradually until today about the only thing remaining is the giving of the ring, this having persisted through the centuries. As originally practiced, the ritual included troth rings for both maid and man and this double ring custom is still preserved by some European peoples.

The sobriquet "Beau Nash" was bestowed upon Richard Nash, a fashionable personage of the eighteenth century. He was born in Wales in 1674, and studied law, but later became a gambler, for which he seemed to have a greater liking and aptitude and from which he derived an ample revenue. # RADIO

Dr. C. B. Joffe of the Radio Laboratory of the Bureau of Standards, with a 250-Watt and a Type "N" Electron Tube.

By DR. ALFRED N. GOLDSMITH
The quality of reproduction of music in the home depends on many elements at the transmitting and receiving stations. Acoustic synchronizing, or the accurate re-creation in the home of the sound waves produced in the enjoyment of radio programs. Few people realize the very important part played by vacuum tubes in the receiving set.

From the standpoint of securing real musical results in the home tubes must meet a number of difficult specifications. While high-grade tubes do, as a matter of fact, meet such specifications, it is by no means uncommon to see the entire circle of broadcast transmission and reception broken and tone quality ruined by the use of unsuitable or unreliable vacuum tubes.

Considering, first, some of the electrical constants of the tubes and without going into the technical details of the matter, vacuum tubes have a certain characteristic which is known as the amplification factor. If the amplification of the tubes used in the receiver is too small, weak and unnatural sounding signals will result. If, on the other hand, the amplification is too great in its relation to the design of the receiving set, the receiver may "oscillate" or produce squealing or howling notes which cannot be conveniently eliminated or controlled.

Internal Impedance. Another important constant is what is known as the "internal impedance" of the tube. Roughly speaking, this is a measure of the opposition of the tube to the flow of plate current through it. It is the factor which limits the current drawn from the "B" battery. If the internal impedance is too small there will be an excessive drain on the plate batteries without corresponding advantage and plate battery renewals will be uncomfortably frequent. On the other hand, if the internal impedance is too high, weak signals of unsatisfactory character will be produced and tone quality on the average loud speaker will be distinctly unsatisfactory. Accordingly, internal impedance of vacuum tubes must also be held within carefully considered limits.

The elements inside of modern vacuum tubes are close together, and they, in conjunction with the wires leading from them to the contact pins in the base of the tube, constitute what are known as electrical capacities. In other words, there are miniature condensers formed by the filament, grid and plate, the capacities of such condensers residing inside of the tube. It is a fact that in many highly efficient circuits these internal tube capacities definitely influence the electrical behavior of the set. Receivers which are "neutralized" or "balanced" against tendency toward oscillation (howling) are necessarily so balanced for a particular tube. If the internal capacity of tubes varies too far receivers which would otherwise properly function will begin to produce uncontrollable notes, generally of a buzzing or whistling nature, whereupon the musical enjoyment of the audience is destroyed.

The Filament. Inside the vacuum tube is a glowing element called the filament. It is a sort of reservoir from which streams a current of electricity in the form of a myriad of tiny electrical charges called electrons. These pass from the filament to the plate inside of the tube and their flow is definitely controlled by the grid element between the filament and the plate, which acts as a sort of electric valve, turning on and off the flow of current through the tube and presumably in accordance with the shape of the sound originally produced in the broadcast studio. This, in general terms, is the process whereby the original signal is reproduced in the home. It is clear that an essential portion of this process is the emission of a sufficiently cop

Inspect Ulster County Jails

Albany, July 10.—The State Prison Commission has just approved reports of inspection of the following places in Ulster county: New Paltz, Pine Hill, Marlborough and Saugerties. On account of the inflammable nature of the building, the inspectors recommended adequate supervision during the night at New Paltz. In the case of the jail at Saugerties it was recommended that the place should be kept clean and the cells and ceilings painted.

Will Help Motor Truck Inquiry

National Automobile Chamber of Commerce Appoints Judge McChord to Assist Interstate Commerce Commission in Its Investigation of Motor Truck and Bus Transportation.

Washington, July 10.—Believing the time has come for a survey of the whole field to determine in what way the motor truck and bus can best be fitted into the transportation system of the country, 2,000 owners of motor truck fleets through the bus division of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce have selected Judge Charles C. McChord, former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to represent them at a series of hearings. The commission is investigating concerning the operation of busses and trucks by or in connection with railroads.

The hearings will begin in Chicago on July 27 and end in Washington September 20, and will take the Commission into all sections of the country. McChord will study the legal questions involved and make such recommendations as will aid the Commission in arriving at all the facts.

No Counties in Louisiana

Soon after the territory which is now the state of Louisiana came into the possession of the United States it was divided into 12 counties. These districts, which were purely arbitrary, proved unsatisfactory from the standpoint of civil government. Therefore, in 1807, the territory was redistricted. This time the old Spanish parishes or ecclesiastical districts were used as a basis for the division. Hence the name parish instead of county.—Exchange.

"Hummer" Friend of Farmer

The male ruby-throat does not "do" as handsome as he looks, writes a correspondent. After the courtship season and the building of the fichen-felted cup of a nest, the hummer husband is much more likely to desert his mate, who is left alone to hatch the eggs and to rear the young. The hummers earn their right to live and not alone through their display of beauty. Their food consists largely of minute injurious insects.

Canoeing on English Rivers

Swans on the Avon at Warwick Castle.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

NO BETTER idea of English country and village life can be obtained than by a canoe trip along the Thames, the Cherwell and the Avon. Except in the immediate neighborhood of Stratford the Avon is little known—a surprising fact when one remembers that for beauty of scenery and historical interest it is second only to the Thames, while, as providing a series of pictures of English country life unspoiled by modern innovations it is the Thames' superior.

The Thames needs little introduction. Within the small compass of about a hundred miles it shows just what is characteristic in English scenery, history and modern life. The monuments of the past, the placid and prosperous life of the present, the quiet pastoral beauty of meadow, woodland and silver stream are seen here, and all at their best.

One is inclined to say that if a visitor had only four days in which to capture a true impression of this country, he would do well to spend two of them in the Thames valley.

Preparations for such a voyage are soon made. A large Canadian canoe is perhaps best as it is the easiest craft to work and one which possesses in addition the virtues of roominess and portability. A light gypsy tent can be carried for camping purposes. The first leg of the journey is from Oxford, north to Banbury.

The whole of this stretch is rich farming country, marked by that peaceful settled look so characteristic of the Midlands.

The canal winds quietly through waving poppy-strewn fields and low-lying meadows, turns the meditative cattle standing knee-deep in the sweet pasturage, while anon a bend carries one past woodlands where the trees meet overhead and form a canopy through which the sun's rays scarcely penetrate.

At intervals one comes to tiny villages, usually clustered round the old gray church and looking as they dream in the sunlight the very embodiment of ease and peace.

More frequently there comes a lock, which affords a welcome break to the pleasure boat but which presents a formidable obstacle to commerce.

Many Annoying Locks.

It is only six miles from Oxford to Warwick but there are six locks, and the time spent in negotiating these is one of the chief reasons why the canal is not popular. They are small in size, having been designed so that one man can work them and admitting only one barge at a time, are wasteful in the extreme, both of time and space.

Twenty-six miles from Oxford is Banbury, famous for its oaks and its nursery rhyme of the Little Boy and a White Horse. Nowadays it is a prosperous sleepy market town, particularly well built, but having a few fine half-timbered houses. The barges grow fewer in number every year, and this is a pity, for there are few more picturesque sights than a barge pulled up on a lock, towed quietly along by an old horse with a small attendant to see that he behaves, and steered by a stout old lady, wearing either an old sunbonnet or a straw hat.

For the last few miles the canal runs in a cutting, and locks are so numerous (23 in 14 miles) as to become a burden so that it is with relief that the paddles through the cut-slits of Leamington to connect them the Avon about three-quarters of a mile above Warwick.

Warwick and Stratford.

Warwick is one of the most interesting towns in England, its history going back more than a thousand years to the foundation of the castle by Ethelred, the Danish slayer of King Alfred.

The present building dates from the thirteenth century and is one of the masterpieces of the thirteenth century English architecture, the very heart of the Avon.

With its great Norman keep towering aloft like a giant sentinel, it presents a picture of dignity and strength which remains long in the memory. From Warwick the Avon winds away toward Stratford through the grounds of the castle, and there the extraordinary charm of the English park-land can be realized to the full.

The low-lying fields, covered with the lush green grass and dotted with the golden buttercups and snow-white daisies, stretch away on either side, broken by the trees singly, in clumps, or great masses, which are the glory of the place. Here is a group of oaks which were saplings when the Armada sailed, and there a giant beech raises its clean, velvet-smooth trunk.

Herds of deer move lazily and securely along, while from all around come the calls of innumerable wildfowl. A noble heron flapping slowly overhead and the great castle in the background complete the picture. It is a very "haunt of ancient peace."

On leaving the park the course becomes more difficult and great care is necessary to avoid the shallows and rocks which plentifully beset the river bed. Not far beyond is Stratford, the home of Shakespeare.

Sight-seers usually climb the tower of the Memorial theater and look around. The Avon flows gently past the very foot of the building and close by is crossed by the two ancient bridges with their many arches, while in the distance is the smiling Midland plain.

The town itself is like many English country towns—quiet, dignified and peaceful. Shakespeare's house lies in a by-street. With its gables, small diamond-paned windows, and framing of oak beams, it is typical of the sixteenth-century middle class house. In the High street is the grammar school where the poet learned his "little Latin and less Greek," and which still, in its quaint low-ceilinged rooms with their heavy oaken beams, carries on the tradition of learning. A little farther on is New Place, where Shakespeare spent his last years, but which is now a garden.

Near by, in a still green close, approached by an avenue of shady limes, is the church where the poet lies buried surrounded by his kindred.

Golden Valley of Evesham.

The 20-mile stretch to Evesham is full of interest. There are no towns and few villages. The prevailing impression is one of remoteness which is added to by the obstacles that have to be surmounted. It is hard to believe that within a few miles are manufacturing towns full of busy people. Here everything betokens peace and the absence of man.

Evesham has a fine position in a loop of the river, and is specially famous for its orchards. Lying in a sheltered district called the "Golden valley," its fruit rivals that of Kent, and in springtime the miles and miles of pink and white blossoms filling the air with their fragrance, make a sight not easily forgotten.

Historically it is the scene of the decisive battle in which the great popular leader, Simon de Montfort, the first man to summon a representative parliament in England, was killed on August 4, 1265. The victor was Prince Edward, afterward the great warrior statesman, Edward I, who, as he himself said, learned much from the career of his rival.

The town itself is disappointing. There are two churches sharing one churchyard, but they have been "restored" and so robbed of much of their interest. Near by is the last tower, a beautiful perpendicular structure standing quite alone, an unusual feature in England, and forming a landmark for miles around.

Below Drayton the river widens but still keeps its air of quietude. One can paddle down reach after reach, if interested with the quietude of the river and the beauty of English meadow and woods.

Rocks of Mystery

Near the town of Garmen, Kan., are two mountains on which are 14 feet high and the other 10 feet high. They are the only two mountains of the group, and it is estimated that 30,000 of these animals are killed each year for the purpose of securing the tusks. Some tusks reach a length of nine feet and weigh more than 25 pounds.
